Government funds Child Care

Canada's Child Development Center, Incorporated, moves into its third year with a new source of money, funds from the federal government. The privately-run center provides child care for children of Canada students.

Three new employees are on the centers' payroll thanks to the money from Washington. The center at 2915 Broadway in Redwood City now pays a head teacher, an infant care coordinator and an instructional aid teacher out of a federal Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) grant.

The State Board of Education, as in past years, has contracted to pay for 75 per cent of the center's Prospective students who missed pre-registration for the fall semester at Canada College, Redwood City (August 23-31), will be admitted through the first week of the semester into classes where space is available. Classes begin Tuesday, September 5, 1977, at the College and fill out an application card.

Josue Hoyos

"I'm very - you can't imagine - how happy I am," Josue Hoyos, Canada's Dean of Students said soft-spokenly, leaning forward in his chair. He was talking about Canada's innovative new EXCEL program. The program was instituted this summer by Canada administrators; perhaps a model for the district, possibly even the state.

EXCEL is an educational program designed to assist minority and disadvantaged students explore their potential for a successful learning experience on an individual basis, through meaningful instruction and support services.

How will this be accomplished? Counseling should be a key to the success of the program. Four major concerns are: the ability to help develop a positive self-image of the student; to follow-up on the student's college activities in the affective and cognitive areas; to assess academic abilities and potential, to place the student in appropriate classes; and to provide assistance in solving the student's personal problems hindering their academic success. Hoyos expressed utmost confidence in the counseling staff.

Curriculum too, will play a major role. EXCEL includes a core curriculum which must be taken by all new incoming students. Continuing students will be requested to register for some of the core curriculum essential for their college survival. The courses will be from the existing curriculum of the Math-Science, Humanities and Counseling divisions. The core curriculum will offer college credit.

The following methods, among others, will be employed:

- a) small classes: 20-30
- b) individualized instruction allowing a student to move at his own pace.
- c) audio visual equipment

The core curriculum consists of classes from the existing curriculum:

- Developmental Math, Reading and Writing
- Guidance
- Ethnic Studies
- English Institute
- Electives

In addition to instruction and counseling, other services are essential to the success of the nontraditional students. These support services are: Orientation, financial aid, tutoring, peer counseling, the computer center and career-job placement coop-ed center.

Once the agreed upon objectives have been satisfied, the student will be assigned a counselor out of EXCEL and will be mainstreamed into the regular college. The student, however, will be followed up by counselors and supportive services will still be available to them.

Call Canada College, 364-1212 for further information regarding the program and its three-package core curriculum.

Social science Gets new director

Marie Bishop, appointed Director, Social Science Div., follows Byron Skinner who resigned in July to accept a new post. Skinner goes to the Los Rios Community College District where he will become the Assistant Dean of Instruction for Social Science at the American River College, near Sacramento.

Ms. Bishop, who clearly qualified that the position is that of "acting" director, explained that time did not permit a thorough affirmative action procedure. These proceedings will be conducted throughout the upcoming school year.

Born in New Jersey, Ms. Bishop attended undergraduate school in Massachusetts. She holds Masters Degrees in English from the University of Michigan and Philosophy and Religious Studies from the University of Chicago. She is at present a candidate for her PhD through the University of Chicago; her dissertation near completion.

Ms. Bishop began her career at Canada in the summer of 1971 on a part-time basis. She gradually became involved full-time. She has conducted classes in Philosophy, English, History and Social Science.

Aside from her teaching duties, Ms. Bishop was the Coordinator for Women's Re-Entry

Program (WREP) and the Women's Center at Canada. She has written short articles for professional journals as well as co-authoring the textbook Living Philosophy with Philip Lawton.

Ms. Bishop has served as a consultant for two textbook publishing firms in the Bay Area.

New experiences

Pleasant new experiences are always exciting and stimulating. At the same time, they can produce feelings of acute fear.

If the ink on your high school diploma is just drying, starting college is the beginning of a lifetime full of decisions, that for many, are vague at best.

Some of you may be returning to college, starting where you left off some time ago. There are bound to be some feelings of hesitancy or insecurities about how you're going to "fit in," how you, too, are going to fare.

For me, starting college 15 years after graduating from high school was barely short of terrifying.

A friend talked me into taking the first plunge. Looking over the schedule, I was a veritable "kid in a candy store." I couldn't believe my options. "Visions of sugar plums danced in my head." Cold feet prevailing, I chose something close to what I was doing at the time. I took Home Management. I felt secure, feeling the class would be made up of women, not unlike myself. It was a great class and I enjoyed it.

By the following semester, I knew I had to jump in, feet first. Let me tell you about my first day.

I sat in class, eyes front most of the time. When I did look around, I thought, "Methuselah had nothing on me." My knees trembled a bit as the teacher breezed into the room, dressed casually and relaxed like nothing I'd ever seen in my parochial school days.

He talked some, asked some questions and then pointed to me "And what are YOU here for?" he said. I'd have swallowed my tonsils if I had any. "I'd like to learn how to write," I whispered, feeling perspiration beads popping out all over, mingling with the goose bumps. The ensuing days were filled with assignments; reading, writing and multitudinous discussions among us. I talked and I listened. I heard a lot.

I also found out that age, younger or older, was not a handicap; that in fact it was never discussed or, I think, even noticed. My experiences so far have been good—and rewarding. It is my hope that yours will be similar.

A.A. requirements Student responsibility

It is of the utmost importance that each student take responsibility for insuring themselves of the prescribed number of credits and required General Education courses necessary to obtain an Associate in Arts or Science degree from Canada College.

The A.A. or A.S. degree is based upon the completion of 60 units of lower-division college-level work, including the requirements listed below. The last 12 units or a total of 48 units, must be completed at Canada and a student is required to have an overall grade average of C (or a C average on the last 60 units of work). At the beginning of the final semester, it is the responsibility of each candidate to file an application for graduation in accordance with directions to be announced by the registrar. Here are the requirements in brief.

The college makes every effort to assist its students in choosing individual courses, major fields and career goals. Take advantage of the counselors services. These services are: Daily, 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Counseling is available evenings, 6-9 p.m., M.Th. A wide variety of guidance courses are offered each semester.

The earlier a student makes a decision to transfer to a four-year college, the better are chances for meeting all requirements without delay. A student planning to transfer to a California State University or College, the University of California or a private college can complete the first two years of work at Canada, in most cases. Consult your counselor in order to arrange a program which will meet transfer requirements.

Peers Counsel

It is a training program which emphasizes "The importance of self-understanding, integrity and the capacity to love in order to effectively help others," says Joe Marchi, Director of Counseling, of Canada College's Guidance 11.

According to Marchi, "Canada College's unique peer-counseling program is an outreach program which ties to the community and finds ways to establish a sense of community at the college."

The class aims at teaching students counseling skills. What the student learns is, "how to be a friend, how to be a good listener," notes Marchi.

Spring semester students included high school students, high school and college counselors and other community members as well. Ages ranged between 16 and 68.

Marchi organized materials for the book, Selected Readings for Peer Counselors, used in class. Course topics include: Self Concept and Relationships to Others, Listening Skills and Dealing with Crises.

Peer counselors take an active part in registration and orientation of new students at the college and have provided an information service at the start of each semester. They have also worked with various community agencies.

The course is offered Tuesdays from 1-3 p.m. (2 units). A special eight-week course for gerontology students is scheduled Wednesdays, 1-3 p.m. (1 unit).

free tutoring is available to all students in all classes taught at Canada College. Call 364-1212, ext. 263.

From the president's corner

Welcome to our Second decade

Welcome to the Fall Semester at Canada! Whether you are coming to the campus for the first time or you are returning after a vacation break, I hope you will find your experience here this Fall especially enriching and satisfying. One of the hallmarks of Canada is our belief that quality education should occur in an atmosphere where people care about each other. We want you to be able to grow both intellectually and emotionally.

This year, Canada will be completing its first decade. After the largest enrollment in our history last year and an all-time high enrollment this past summer, we expect to have even more students this Fall.

There are a number of exciting new courses and programs, as well as many changes in the physical plant. We will be offering two new sports this Fall, Women's Cross Country and Women's Volleyball. Our new Physiology of Exercise laboratory and course will open in the Physical Education Division, and you are cordially invited to get involved in getting your body as well as your brain in top condition.

There will be more short courses than ever before, most of which will be for one credit unit, on topics ranging from "Art as Propaganda" to "Opera Appreciation." The new computer is installed and functioning, and there will be opportunities for students to interact with the computer with on-line terminals in programs covering such things as mathematics skills and career planning, as well as computer programming courses. "Excel" is a new effort by the Student Services division to provide special support to students who want extra help in basic skills, career development, ethnic awareness, academic tutoring, or personal counseling. Excel offices are on the same floor as the Library, where the Computer Center and Student Development Program offices used to be. On the physical side, there is also a new Reading Laboratory in Building 3, and new Optics and Radiologic Technology

J. William Wenrich

Laboratories in Building 18. The expanded and remodeled Media Learning Center is now open for business. Both the new Computer Center and the Math Laboratory are located next to it right above the Library.

In the midst of change and development, one thing about Canada must stay constant—an open line of communication. It is my hope that the office doors of faculty and administrators will be open to you whenever you need help. I encourage you to stop by my office for a chat—to throw bouquets or brickbats, or just to let us get to know one another. I keep "Open Office Hours" on Mondays from 11 a.m. to Noon, and Thursdays from 2 p.m. to 3 p.m., when you can just drop by without an appointment. I would be delighted to talk with you any other time if you wish to schedule an appointment.

May this year at Canada be everything you hope it will be.

Seniors can volunteer through RSVP

For persons over 60, retired or semi-retired, who have grown weary of sitting on their duffs wasting time, there is a volunteer program available. Paul Johnson, coordinator of the Retired-Senior Volunteer Program (R.S.V.P.) is continually recruiting senior volunteers who offer their services in hospitals, libraries, nutrition centers, and even the county jail.

"The volunteers are from all walks of life," says Johnson. "Some of them are disabled. Our oldest member is 110 years old."

Volunteers are reimbursed for any transportation or meal expenses while on the job. Also they are provided with accident insurance in case of on-the-job accidents.

Anyone interested in participating in R.S.V.P. may contact Johnson at 322-4597

New women's center director Offers help to reentry students

Delaine Eastin and Jane Weidman

by Phyllis Olson

Ms. Jane Weidman, English instructor at Canada is undertaking additional responsibilities this fall by replacing Marie Bishop as director of the Women's Reentry to Education Program (WREP). Delaine Eastin will serve as the coordinator of Women's Studies. These women will be working side by side in Building 16, room 5, better known as the Women's Center.

The Women's Center, open from 8 a.m. until 3 p.m., is simply a place for people (not just women) to go, who are in need of information concerning anything from financial aid to student activities.

Referral services such as child care or legal advice and counseling by professional counselors or peers is available for anyone who is in need of advice or wants someone to talk to. The large, comfortable lounge area is open for relaxation, conversation, or studying. Typewriters are available. Of course the Women's Center also houses the WREP and Women's Studies offices.

'No-hassle' education Offered for seniors

Seniors who are interested in continuing their education without the hassle of requirements and regulations are urged to join the Emeritus Institute, a series of college-level classes and lectures created to offer education to older persons in order to increase their intellectual capacity.

The faculty and students of the Emeritus Institute are retired and semi-retired, but this does not mean that the program is inaccessible to individuals under 60.

Courses offered by the Emeritus Institute include: World Affairs, Developmental Psychology, and Oceanography.

WREP is specially designed "for women who have been out of school for some time and who wish to improve their present situation but are unsure as to how to go about doing so," explained Ms. Weidman. She has noted "many women, unfortunately are too inhibited and insecure about returning to school after such a long absence. WREP is a great way to get back into the swing of things."

WREP offers classes such as Guidance, to help the individual rediscover herself; Study Skills, to redevelop study habits long ago discarded; basic courses in English, Social Science and Math, plus others. Students may attend in the daytime when children are in school or in the evening when arrangements can be made for child care and household responsibilities do not interfere.

Joan Del Gaudio and Lori Hergert are counselors for WREP; they are on hand "to help ease the pressures and anxieties all too often present in reentry women," according to Ms. Weidman.

Ms. Eastin who teaches

Political Science at Canada believes, "to be truly educated, one must learn not only history, politics, and psychology as seen from a man's point of view, but the woman's as well. Women's Studies have been created to fill this gap left by the great men and their theories." The courses include: Literature by and about Women, 4-7 p.m. Monday; Women in U.S. History, 7-10 p.m. Monday; Women, Politics, and Power, 7-10 p.m. Tuesday; Psychology of Women, 7-10 p.m. Wednesday; and Assertiveness Training, an eight week course beginning Sept. 6 and Nov. 1 from 2:00-4:00 p.m. Tuesdays. Ms. Eastin points out emphatically that, "the courses in Women's Studies are not limited to women alone, on the contrary, we encourage men to participate as they also must become aware of women's new role in society."

Women 18 and older interested in WREP and anyone interested in the Women's Studies program or Center can contact by dialing 364-1212 ext. 460.

Wanted!

Anyone with an active interest in photography, who is in possession of a 35mm camera and wishes to exhibit their talents in the Weathervane should please contact Renee Mitchell, editor, or Phyllis Olson, photo-editor, in person at the Weathervane office in Building 17, Room 112, or call 364-1212 ext. 248.

Photographers will learn how to process black and white film and print their own pictures, including special effects. Two units of credit are offered for services which amount to a few hours a week.

Foreign students

World students Attracted to Cañada

James Collins, Foreign Student Advisor for Canada, anticipates approximately 100 foreign students for the 1977-78 academic year.

The prospective students come from all over the world, including Germany, Switzerland, Iran, Panama, Thailand, and South Africa. They will be majoring in fields such as Engineering, Business, Art, Microbiology, and Political Science to name but a few.

Many of the students are returning from last semester, many have already spent a year in the U.S. learning English at a language institution, while still others have only recently arrived or are on their way.

Collins, who also teaches Economics at Canada, and his secretary Mrs. Sara Fields see to it that foreign students are oriented with the campus, provided with suitable housing, and given a schedule of classes which corresponds to their major. Students are encouraged to visit Collins, or Mrs. Fields if and whenever they feel they have problems concerning their classes, their interrelationships with other students, English, personal lives, virtually anything.

How does a foreign student hear about Canada College? "More often than not, another student who has attended classes on campus passes the word along to a relative or friend that Canada is a good school," according to Mrs. Fields. "The prospective student may send to Canada for an application or perhaps they can procure one from the American Embassy in that particular country."

The application includes all of the information a resident of San Mateo County would provide the school with plus an essay question for the students to acquaint themselves with the administration on campus. The essay question offers the administration a chance to see whether or not the student is qualified physically, mentally, and financially to attend classes here.

Collins explains that, "each student must pay an annual tuition fee of $1340 (or $670 per semester), consequently, many students carry a load of 20 units or more in order to graduate in three semesters so as to save the $670 that would be paid out for a fourth semester. Students must also supply themselves with health insurance in case of accident and auto insurance if driving a car."

Mr. Collins and Ms. Lois Chanslor, Director of Admissions and Records prefer the student have a relatively high grade point average as the capabilities of the students could very well enable them to assimilate Western culture more rapidly than a student of lesser potential.

What would disqualify a foreign student from attending Canada? Well, there is no point in accepting a student whose major the campus does not carry. Some of the applicants already have a B.A. or B.S.; since the influx of applications is so great, the administration must be selective in accepting a student who can benefit most from the program. Applicants are turned down if their grades are not up to par or if their English is too poor. Finally, a student who is unable to afford the tuition fee is usually not accepted.

Musical notes

By Kevin Teixeira

It's been a long hot summer full of good weather and good shows. The Bay Area has been host to some good music from all sorts of areas; rock, jazz, and blues.

At the end of May, the Eagles and Steve Miller played the first good and hot day on the green. Heart, out of Vancouver, with Ann (dark haired lead singer, songwriter and flutist) and Nancy (vocals and guitar) Wilson helped open the show with a very impressive set. Coming out of nowhere, this is the first Rock band dominated by women and as such they are being compared to everyone but themselves. Ann Wilson explained: "You know what I hate? I hate being asked how long we've been together and how we got our name. I hate being asked what it's like being a woman in the rock business. And I hate being compared to Fleetwood Mac, Robert Plant, Janis Joplin or Grace Slick."

The Living King of Blues, singer "Muddy" Waters came out of retirement last year to sing at The Band's "Last Waltz" concert. Well back in the studio with Johnny Winter and friends, he came out with a solid new album. One night only was he in the Bay Area, and that great voice still puts out with no weakness trouble at all.

Jazz drummer Billy Cobham did a couple of shows at the "Great American Music Hall." This extraordinary drummer has played with John McLaughlin and Jan Hammer in the Mahavishnu Orchestra, Chic Corea and Jean Luc Ponty among others. He has recently produced an album for Bilham Coby Productions with Fantasy records of Berkeley. The album is Pete & Shelia Escovedo's "Solo Two," a father and daughter team, these two percussionists delivered a fine debut album.

The Frampton concerts over the 4th of July weekend came off without a hitch. The Outlaws opened the show with good hard southern Rock & Roll. Then Santana took the stage with a new vocalist and Alfonso Johnson on bass. Towards the end of the set, Sheila Escovedo was brought on stage to handle the timbales while Santana filled in on congas. Lynard Skynyrd came out and played the usual set, ending with the usual "Free Bird" and performed as well as they usually do. They seem to be getting into a rut and it's about time they found some way to go beyond Free Bird before the weight of the sound drags them down. The headliner Peter Frampton ran leaping and bounding onto the stage, but the crowd was watching fireworks and took a few seconds to notice him. He played his good slick commercial music and ran the crowd through the yells and movements that the little cheerleader is famous for. He ended his set (before encores) with a 45 minute version of "Do You Feel Like We Do," featuring him playing almost every instrument on stage, walking and leaping off of his stacks of speakers and even leaping into the audience at one point.

For Led Zeppelin, Bill Graham had the front of the stage painted to resemble Stone Hedge. The group played well and hard, on and off the stage. The story is out now, how on Saturday the LZ manager tossed Graham out of his trailer and proceeded to beat up Graham's security guard. This group that plays the finest and hardest heavy metal music has surely played its swan song in the Bay area. Only their high draw potential has kept promoters bringing them back and letting them play their games without any consequences, until now.

The finest concert this year, so far, goes to ELP (Emerson, Lake & Palmer) even without their much publicized orchestra they are still some of the world's greatest Rock artists. The whole design of the stage and the special lighting isolated and individualized the artists. Palmer's drums were surrounded by a strip of metal painted a flat black, off of which lights were reflected. This approach succeeded in giving him totally different color hues and tones from the others even when the same color and tone of lights were on them all. It was as if his colors were being pulled off an infra-red photo and shot off his symbols. Their music covered all styles and types: Emerson's classical piano to his synthesizers, the beautiful ballads of Greg Lake's like "Closer to Believing" (which took over two years to write), to the explosiveness of Palmer's new version of "TANK." Not relying on old material to pull them through after the loss of the orchestra, the end portions of the concert relied heavily on the new "Works" album with the impressive "Pirates" piece. They opened the show as usual with "Karn Evil 9," "Welcome back, my friends, to the show that never ends..."

A number of local groups have started to make their break for the top. Steve Miller's harmonica man Norton Buffalo cut his first album, produced by Mickey Hart of the Dead, and it is doing fine. Tom Petty and the Heart Breakers have cut a disc and are packing them in, as seen recently at the Old Waldorf. Niles Logfren cut a live album at the Waldorf and the Escovedos were there with Bill Summers on percussion and Jorte & Carlos Santana on guitars. Something called KISS was at the Cow Palace but Ted Nugent will help clean up the fouled air there with his hot guitar.

Summer is giving way to fall and the Bay Area's good music never stops, just hides now and then. There are good sounds coming out of the clubs again and Bill Graham now owns Winterland. The stages are never empty and this section of the paper will keep up with what is happening on them.

A wide range of music is coming and listed some of the upcoming attractions: Saturday, 27 August, 8 p.m.; Winterland Rush, Earthquake & Greg Kihn. Sunday, 28 August, 8 p.m., Cow Palace, REO Speedwagon, & Rex. In association Saturday, 3 September, 2 p.m. Greek Theatre Bonnie Raitt, Jesse Colin Young & North & Superb. Community service; 50+ Offerings

by Steve O'Mara

The fall semester at Canada holds many possibilities for the general public and the student. There are several programs of new, unique classes, special seminars, workshops, short courses and just plain entertainment. Canada's Community Services will sponsor over 50 activities.

Some of these special activities provide credit and cost little or nothing. Primarily, they are held on campus, with some specials held at the community center.

Nationally recognized Daniel Nagrin will give a one-man concert of classical and modern dance, Oct. 1.

Jack (Washington-Merry-Go-Round) Anderson, syndicated in more than 970 newspapers will appear at Canada's gymnasium (of all places), December 7th. Find out about the back-yard antics of Washington.

Some of the Community Services courses offered are the Artist's Survival Packet, Publicity Techniques for Non-Profit Groups, Yoga For The Not So Young, Meditation for Seniors and Personal Effectiveness for Seniors, as well as regular Yoga classes.

Holistic Health is back for the seventh time, utilizing health through the body, mind and spirit as a whole.

If you really want to go places, the Christmas Tour of Cuba and Mexico is unique. The Easter Tour to Washington is to be repeated and a chance to observe the Pacific Grey Whale Watch off Baja California or the Volga River Cruise through Russia's heartland are all possibilities.

For further information, call Canada, 364-1212, ext. 236.

Cañada Reaches Out

"We want to cover it all," he said, "north, south, east and west (South County)." Gil Villarreal, Director of Continuing Education at Canada College, referred to the more than 130 off-campus courses offered this fall.

In an attempt to reach different categories of people, the college is providing more classes at a variety of locations. There will be classes for professionals and non-professionals. In-service training will receive special emphasis. The fare includes classes for secretaries, re-entry women, food service workers, teachers, nurses and convalescent home personnel.

Various locations are: East Palo Alto, Brentwood School and Ravenswood High School; Half Moon Bay Library; In Menlo Park, Hillview School, Little House, O.I.C.W., Raychem Corp., U.S. Geological Survey and Veterans Administration; Pescadero-La Honda School District Office in Pescadero; In Redwood City, Fair Oaks Community Center, Hoover School, Kaiser Hospital, Lincoln School, Educational Resources Center, Sequoia High School and Woodside High School; Farinon, San Carlos; San Mateo Health Center and El Camino High School, So. San Francisco.

Leaders speak

Leadership in Organization, a lecture-seminar series at Canada, is being offered under the heading of Management 93.

The course will cover contemporary and historical leadership organization with many business leaders of today.

What makes a leader? What can be learned about leadership by looking at great men and women of the past, as well as contemporary models? What are some of the secrets of successful, local leaders?

These are some of the questions to be considered in the semester-long series. Guest speakers will be Peninsula leaders in industry, politics, community affairs, education, and the arts.

Instructor-coordinator is Arthur Katz, Director of the Canada Business Division and member of several boards of directors in private industry. He received his doctorate in business administration with emphasis in the area of leadership in 1976, the first person to earn a doctorate in business administration from Golden Gate University. Material for his thesis, titled "Education and the Uncommon Wheel," came from interviews with 30 top executives in 26 firms from the Fortune 500 list.

Speakers who will share their experiences about leadership include: Gertrude Wilks—Chairperson of Municipal Council, Founder and Director of Mothers for Equal Education and Nairobi Schools; Frank Leach—President, Arcata National Corporation, Menlo Park; Jimmy Lyons—Director for 20 years of the Monterey Jazz Festival; Bob Harred—Special Asst. to the Menlo Park Police Chief; Dr. Harry Reynolds—Superintendent, Sequoia Union High School; Melvin Cohn—Superior Court Judge; Art Hausman—President, Ampex Corporation; Roz-Hopkins-James—Director of Employment, Crocker National Bank, S.F. Jean Luis Le Roux—conductor of the San Francisco Ballet Orchestra.

Gerontology Starts second year

by Phyllis Olson

It appears, as people reach retirement age, our society no longer has any use for them. They live on the meager benefits the Social Security Program has so diligently extracted from their paychecks over a period of 40 or so years while they sit at home with nothing to do. They are unable to find new jobs and no one cares to help them.

Not true. Ms. Lois Cunningham, coordinator of the Gerontology Training Program is happy to announce that, "due to the great interest shown, the program is about to begin its second year."

Included in the program are a number of services available to retired persons such as the Retired Senior Volunteer Program, an opportunity for retired persons to put to use their free time; SCAN (Senior Citizen Action News) a monthly newsletter "concerned with senior citizens... and their concerns"; and the Emeritus Institute, a series of lectures and courses designed for retired and semi-retired persons to increase their intellectual capacity and stay mentally active rather than stagnate into senility.

What is Gerontology? It is the study of the aging process from psychological, sociological, biological and physiological standpoints. Ms. Cunningham states, "The Gerontology program at Canada is designed to create an awareness and understanding in the public of the natural and inevitable process of aging. They also attempt to eliminate the mythology that usually accompanies old age i.e. old age is synonymous with senility, and destroying the barrier that separates old people from young."

The program is divided into three parts: 1) Education; a series of courses are provided to teach the individual the needs of the elderly, acquainting them with working with an older person. An A.A. is offered. Transfer programs to a four year college or university are also available.

Recommended classes include: Perspectives in Aging; Introduction to Gerontology, Introduction to Human Services, and Cooperative Education.

The second part of the program focuses on the training of the individuals already working, with more background in their field and learning skills in handling benefit systems.

The third part of the gerontology program deals with direct services for the elderly, providing education, recreation, and social activities.

Ms. Cunningham mentions that, "the program, though dealing with the elderly, is for any individual over 18 who shows an interest in people and desires to work with older people."

Anyone interested in the Gerontology Training Program can contact Ms. Cunningham in person in Building 8, Room 206 or by telephoning 364-1212, ext. 347.

Popular repeats given thru 'found time' scheduling

For those interested in classes but have not time, Canada has developed, through The Humanities and the Community Relations offices, a group of Short Courses and Found-Time classes. Covered will be popular repeats and suggestions from the community, as well as activities around the Bay Area.

Found-Time offerings in art are, In the Russian Style, Landscape Photography, Calligraphy and the Bay Area Galleries.

There are short courses in State Security Requirements, Indoor Gardening, Introduction to Word Processing and Office Machine Transcription.

Production classes in theater, college writing, Steinbeck and Fitzgerald classes, languages, occupation planning, child-care, health education and several music classes for the not-so-musical, are on the agenda. Scuba, tennis, sailing, parliamentary procedures and assertiveness training are also included for the busy student.

With unit credit and no charge beyond the price of a book, these classes are available to you by calling Canada, 364-1212 and asking for Found-Time, ext. 336 or Short Courses, ext. 340.

There is still more. Program Specials 70 will provide weekly activities of a wide interest range.

Food tec students Explore cooking

The food Technology and Management Program at Canada College offers an expanded evening program this fall.

Tuition-free classes are open to all San Mateo County residents 18 yrs. and older.

Classical Cookery—Foods Around the World, taught by Dietmar Barnikal, Certified Executive Chef, gourmet and world traveler, will feature foods and beverages of the classical countries. This participation class, held Tuesdays, 7-10 p.m., begins Sept. 6. There is a $25 lab fee.

Modern Baking and Decorating is a participation class in baking taught by Karl Kurk, Master Baker and Certified Executive Chef. He will use only commonly available ingredients. Classes, Wednesdays, 7-10 p.m., start Sept. 7. There is a $5 lab fee.

Quantity Food Purchasing explores the kinds and qualities of food available in the marketplace, in addition to standard purchasing methods and controls. Joseph Rivas, Certified Executive Chef at Pam Pam East Restaurant and the Pacific Coast "Chef of the Year" in 1970, instructs Mondays from 7-10 p.m., starting Sept. 12.

Call Canada College 364-1212, ext. 310 for more information.

This fall, Canada offers two new short courses in photography; Composition in Photography and Landscape Photography.

Phiz Mezey (Mosesson), the instructor, comes to Canada with an impressive background. Her numerous credits include: a one-person exhibit at the San Francisco Museum of Art as well as other museum and gallery shows; publication in nationally circulated magazines and textbooks; covers for "California Living" magazine and a book of houseplants; several filmstrips for the elementary grades; a 200-picture book on career education and a color photo-essay in "Learning Magazine", Palo Alto.

Ms. Mezey has also published two books, "Our San Francisco" and "Something That's Happening, A Portrait of the Sausalito School District".

Both classes will be held at Canada Bldg. 3, rm. 254. Composition in Photography will meet on Wednesdays; 7-10 p.m.; September 28-November 2. Landscape Photography meets on Wednesdays; 7-10 p.m.; November 9-December 2. They are one unit courses. Call Canada, 364-1212, ext. 336.

Management Courses Slated

Among management courses to be offered this fall at Canada College when the fall semester opens Sept. 6 are "Dynamics of Group Communication" and "Sales Management."

The communication course, primarily for people in business and industry, is also applicable to individuals involved in fields of education, health, and community service, where they serve in groups such as task forces, teams, and ad hoc committees. Classes will be held in bldg. 13, room 17, Fridays from 7-10 p.m. beginning Sept. 9.

Through use of group simulations, behavioral exercises, and role plays, instructor Larry Heindel will provide opportunities for students to learn and practice effective group communication, problem solving, and decision making. His background includes 10 years as an in-house management and organization development specialist in both public and private organizations.

"Sales Management," held Tuesdays 7-10 p.m. at Woodside High beginning Sept. 6, is designed primarily for newly appointed sales managers, many of whom came from the ranks of salespersons and have little formal training in managerial skills. Instructor Marv Modell has had broad experience in retailing, network broadcasting sales, and 15 years as worldwide national sales manager for Muzak Corporation.

Pre-registration will take place between Aug. 18 and 31, by appointment only, or at the first class meeting. For more information call 364-1212, ext. 201.

You may wonder why a foreign student would choose a junior college over a four year university like U.C. Berkeley or Davis. Mr. Collins believes "smaller classes and more individual attention for students is an attracting factor in their choice." Many four year institutions recommend a junior college to a foreign student with the idea of transferring later on. Mrs. Fields adds that, "In many cases the student feels that a junior college's curriculum is less intense than a university's, therefore they can assimilate into American culture more gradually and under less pressure. A junior college aids them in becoming more proficient in the use of English, they begin to learn and understand Western customs, and most important perhaps, they learn how to be a student in an American school." After a year or two at Canada many students transfer to a four year school while others return to their homeland with the experience of living in the U.S.

Many foreign students attending classes at Canada wish to live with an American family in order to experience Western culture through family life; sort of on the job training so to speak. Some students pay room and board by working around the house or finding jobs if they are not receiving their living expenses from their family. Still others come from wealthy homes and enjoy the luxury of their own apartment or home. Often when students have just arrived here they have no place to stay until Mr. Collins or Mrs. Fields can find suitable housing for them. In these cases someone is found who can house the individual for a few days until permanent housing is acquired. There is always a shortage of short-term housing and anyone who can offer such is encouraged to contact Mr. Collins or Mrs. Fields, at 364-1212 ext. 289.

Child Care

bills. Private grants footed the rest of the tab in previous semesters.

The center, under director Barbara Best, cares for up to 24 children an hour from 7:45 a.m. to 5:15 p.m., Mon.-Fri.

Eligibility is based on parents' marital status, income and the age of the child. First priority goes to low income, single parents with infants.

Children three to six stay at the center in the 1st Methodist Church; infants are placed in one of the center's five infant care homes.

Registration for the fall semester officially ended Aug. 22. But, Incorporation President, Peggy Pribyl, says parents may still have a chance to enroll their young children.

Morning hours, she mentions, fill up fast. But the after 2 p.m. slots sometimes remain open. All children, she stresses, must belong to parents currently enrolled at Canada.

Parents put in hours at the center proportionate with the time their children spend at the facility. Co-op, work study and child development students from Canada also help out at the center.

The Incorporation's request for funds from the community college district have been voted down several times, the majority opinion contending adequate child care services already exist for low-income students.

As the privately-run Incorporation starts into its third year, Peggy Pribyl states, "We really haven't given up hope on the trustees' funding." To date the trustees have refused to be the funding agency for the center. We're hoping that this lab school will prove that the lab school is a necessary part of life. Eventually we hope to have a center on campus more convenient to students," said Mrs. Pribyl.

Application forms for enrollment are available on campus. For more information, contact the center at 364-2373.

Cañada's Ongoing Musical Events

Thursday Mornings at 11:00 a.m., has become an enjoyable time for those who have discovered Music 41—Recital Class. You do not have to play or sing, just bring a warm body to the Choral Room, Bldg. 3, rm. 148, and listen to the refreshing sounds of some of the finest musical artists in our community. Canada faculty, as well as advanced students, are there also to inspire you.

There is no homework and 15 units of transferable credit is available. There is no fee and everyone is invited.

Canada College's singers and instrumentalists will soon begin tuning up for a busy year. The "Canada College Singers", a small multi-talented group who specialize in both pop and serious music, are already accepting performing engagements. The Canada Orchestra is dreaming up schemes to bring back the belly dancers who appeared on their last concert in June.

The Canada Music Department offers six distinct and separate performing organizations—three during the daytime and three at night. The Canada College Choir meets daily at noon and the Canada Singers meet at 10 a.m., MWF. Carl Sitton is the director of the choral organizations.

The Canada Orchestra rehearses under the direction of John Krueger and meets at 2:10-3:30 p.m. on MWF. Small instrumental ensembles are also available, directed by Philip Ienni. Instruction is available on virtually any musical instrument without cost.

Performing groups that meet in the evening are:

Tuesday—Peninsula Master Chorale, Carl Sitton conductor

Wednesday—S.M. County Community Orchestra, John Krueger conductor

Thursday—Canada Concert Band, Stanley Easter conductor

College via T.V.

As might be anticipated in this technological age, college courses, for credit, are broadcast on television. Canada College is one of the many community colleges in districts from Mendocino to Monterey offering this means of attending classes.

Courses included are: Age of Uncertainty (John Kenneth Galbraith); Man builds, Man Destroys; Foods for the Modern Family; Cultural Anthropology; As Man Behaves and World of Stitchery (Evelyn Landes).

An instructor on campus will serve as the T.V. student's personal contact with each course, answering questions, providing opportunities to review and evaluating any examinations or study projects.

Credits earned are applicable toward a community college degree and are transferable to many other colleges and universities. Make specific inquiries as to the latter.

Classes, beginning in September, will be broadcast on such channels as 4, 7, 9, 14, 32 and 54 at various times and usually repeated one week later.

Call Canada College, 264-1212, ext. 353 for further information.

Children's Art Studied

Introducing children to the arts through adult guidance is the goal of two classes being offered by Canada this fall.

The classes, especially suggested for parents, teachers, teacher's aides or anyone interested in working with children, are open to the community.

Children's Literature, presents a broad spectrum of what is available in literature for children today. Sybil Warsowe, the instructor, feels that although the course is aimed at motivating children, an important element in the learning process, it is also an opportunity for adult investigation of simple truths and the opening of pathways for explaining the inner self.

Fine Arts for Children, Arts 44, will provide an opportunity for adults to become acquainted with music and art activities that are appropriate for a child's world. The class includes music and art appreciation material as well as direct studio experiences and will be team-taught by Virginia Rathbun and Sybil Warsowe.

Classes begin Wednesday, Sept. 7th. Class times and locations are: Children's Literature - Hillview School Library, Santa Cruz and Elder, Menlo Park; 7-10 p.m. on Wednesdays. Art 44 - Canada College, Bldg. 13, rm. 216; 3-6 p.m. on Wednesdays.

Persons interested may register during the first class at either location. Both are three unit courses. Call 364-1212, ext. 336 for further information.

The Weathervane

The Weathervane will be published, weekly, throughout the semester with the exception of those periods when classes are in recess. The paper will be on the racks each Friday morning.

Memorial award given

Canada College students Luis Mendez and Elizabeth Plata, both of Redwood City, were recipients of the first annual Rigoberto Chavez Memorial Award. Presentation was made at the San Mateo County Community College Board of Trustees meeting on June 8, 1977.

Chavez, a star player on the Canada College soccer team in 1975, died of cancer in August, 1976, at the age of 20. Prior to his death, he was involved in activities of the Latin American students.

The award, established to recognize students who have contributed to the growth of "La Raza" (now LASA) at the college and in the community, is sponsored by the Association of Latin American students of Canada College. Two students will be honored each year.

Mendez and Plata each received a $50 scholarship, made possible by donations from community organizations and the Canada Soccer Club.

Veterans' office Details payments

Veterans may continue their education while receiving benefits ranging from $146 per month, up. Widows, Widowers and children of veterans also qualify, according to Gary Cappa, who is with Canada's veteran office.

The college houses an independent, full-service Veterans Administration office. The on-campus Veterans Representative, Rich Garza, there to assist veterans in receiving benefits, also acts as liaison in any veteran-V.A. mediations.

Discussing eligibility, Garza cites 181 days of continuous active duty, completion of a minimum of six units per semester and maintenance of the standard terms of the college as conditions. Veterans with degrees are still eligible for benefits, as long as future course of studies indicates a change of vocation. The period of eligibility is ten years from the last day of active service.

Further benefits are: tutorial assistance up to $65 per month; job placement; a work study program at $2.50 per hour for 250 hours per semester (about six students per semester) and expert counseling.

Jim Clarke provides counseling; has contact with the State Dept. of Rehabilitation and assists in vocational guidance.

It may be noted that classes are held at the V.A. Hospital in Palo Alto as well as Canada College.

Additional benefits include V.A. loans up to $1,500 with repayment commencing after the veteran ceases being a student and the Veterans Coalition, a combination social-service club. Dues for the club are nominal.

Regular Attendance Required

Students are expected to attend each meeting of the class in which they are registered. If absence is unavoidable, it is the student's responsibility to check with the instructor for assignments and class work missed. Failure to do so may endanger the student's passing the course. The instructor has the responsibility for dropping or failing a student for excessive absences.

District trustee honored

Eleanore D. Nettle, President of the Board of Trustees of the San Mateo County Community College District, was recently named "Trustee of the Year". The honor was conferred by the California Community College Trustees, of which she was a founder and subsequently three-term chairperson.

Mrs. Nettle, longstanding leader in state and local post-secondary education, has been appointed to the California Postsecondary Education Commission. She will represent the California Advisory Council on Vocational Education, of which she is immediate past chairperson.

Well-known locally, as an educational and community leader, Mrs. Nettle has served 21 years on the community college board and was recently elected by her fellow trustees to a fifth term as president of the college board. She is a member of the boards of directors of the California Industry-Education and the California Community and Junior College Association. She is past president of the California School Boards, Association and holds membership on the Program Review Council of the California Postsecondary Education Commission and the Community College Institute Advisory Council of the Danforth Foundation.

Mrs. Nettle also serves on the board of directors of Mills Memorial Hospital, is a member and former chairperson of the San Mateo County Juvenile Justice

Eleanore D. Nettle

Commission and the County Delinquency Prevention Commission. She is a former president of the League of Women Voters of Central San Mateo County.

During her many active years in community affairs, Mrs. Nettle has been named "Distinguished Junior College Alumnus" by the California Community and Junior College Association and "Alumnus of the Year" by College of San Mateo. She has been honored as "Woman of the Year" by Business and Professional Women of San Mateo and has received the "Woman of Achievement Award" from the Soroptimist Club of San Mateo.

A long-time resident of San Mateo County, Mrs. Nettle is married and has three grown children.

*GOLDEN GATE CONFERENCE GAMES

With Canada's varsity women's sports program off the ground, there has been the addition of two new sports to the roster; cross-country and volleyball.

These teams, as well as the varsity softball team, will face Golden Gate conference foes.

"We intend to do it first class. The women's teams will be equal to the men's in every way; in budget, in coaching assignments," said Rich Anderson, P.E. Div. Director. He is looking forward to strong, competitive teams.

Mike Ibsen will coach cross country. The women will run against other women in conference matches held concurrently with men's events.

Eva Casey, described by Anderson as, "a very dedicated young coach," will train the volleyball team which has a full varsity schedule of 22 games, plus playoff and conference championship matches.

Gordon Gray, instructor and former Athletic Director, will coach the women's softball team during the spring, 1978.

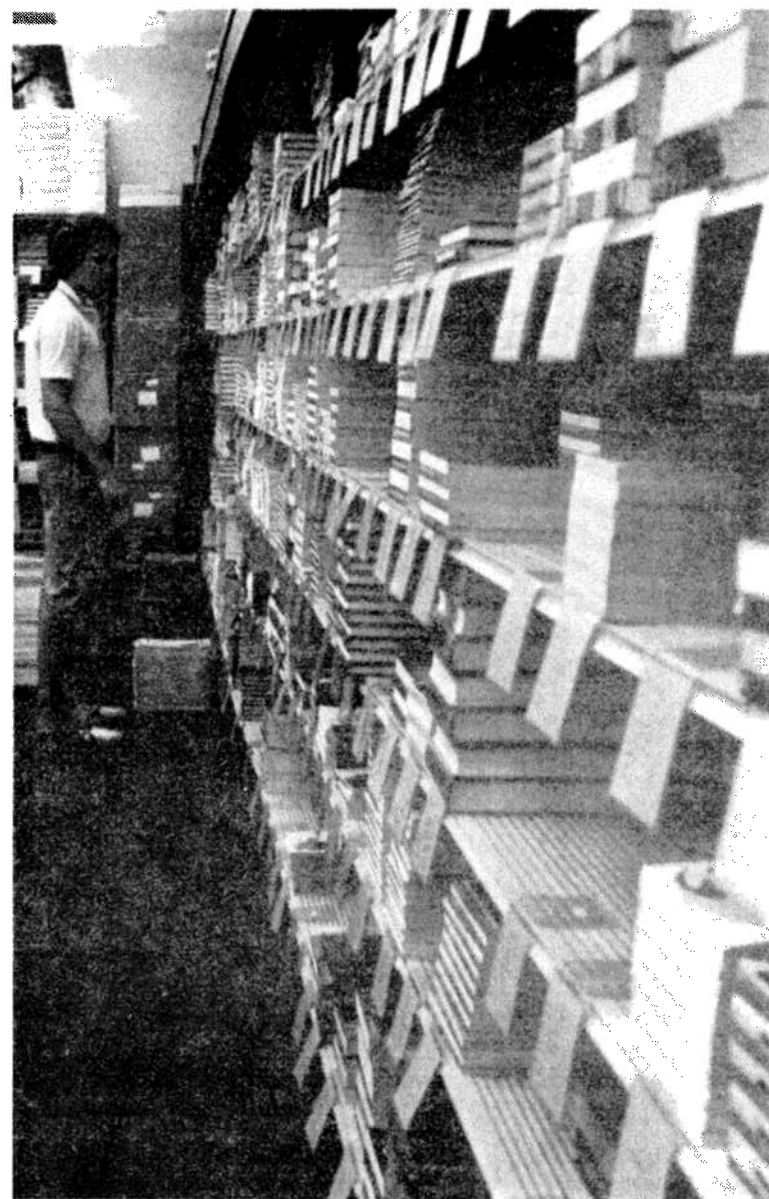

For your convenience ...

The Cañada Cafeteria will be open from 7:30 a.m. to 9 p.m., Monday thru Thursday; 7:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Friday and 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturday. There are also vending machines available for food and beverages.

"The Cantina," to the rear of the cafeteria will be open for hot meals, prepared and served by Food Technology students, a few weeks into the semester. In the past, the hours have been 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

The prices in both facilities are reasonable.

The bookstore will be open for the student's convenience during the following hours: For the first three weeks 9-6 thru 9-24

Monday thru Thursday	7:30 a.m. - 9 p.m.
Friday	7:30 a.m. - 3 p.m.
Saturday	8:30 a.m. - 12:30 p.m.
Thereafter:
