Constitution Ratified 318-4

Following two days of voting last week, the new senatorial constitution was ratified by students 318 to 4 against. One vote was disqualified for a total of 323 votes cast.

According to Ken Kennedy, one time faculty advisor to the ASCC, this was the largest voter turnout in three years.

On Monday, May 8, President

Wenrich signed and endorsed the new constitution, finalizing the creation of a new student government at Canada.

The constitution creates a 15-member senatorial body with a rotating chairman. The senators will be chosen at a general election next week, May 16 and 17. They will hold office from May 22 until elections of next year.

Culinary art— Slated for May 13

On Saturday, May 13, there will be the ninth annual Culinary Arts Show in the cafeteria. This event is sponsored by the Canada Connoisseurs student chapter of the International Food Service Executives Association. Emphatically, this is not food prepared for tasting but a display of party foods.

"Culinary exhibitions are the display window of the profession" adds Alec Cline of Food Tech; "These are not what you'd see at the fair or in restaurants. There are no preservatives used in any of the displays. These must look appetizing and are made to serve on a buffet or banquet table." Student Suzette Gresham adds, "This is a lost art, one very popular in the days of royal banquets."

Canada College is the only school to have nine consecutive shows. "It seems to have become a tradition around here," quips Cline. Entrants come from all over the state, representing high schools and colleges, both day and evening food classes. This contest is not for teachers and professionals.

There will be six categories for competition: appetizers and salads, fish and seafood, meat and fowl, centerpieces, pastries and other baked goods and hot foods shown cold.

The judging will be done by well-known chefs from the Bay Area plus one woman, Lillian Haines-Cline, a catering consultant and the first woman certified executive chef.

There will be trophies and ribbons awarded in each category for the high school level and college level. By Nancy Baglietto

Cañada golfers Place third

Canada's golf team fared extremely well in the recent Nor-Cal Golf Championships at Groveland near Yosemite by placing third in a field of 12 colleges. The impressive Colt showing qualified them for next Monday's State Championships to be played at Rancho Canada's challenging 36 hole layout in Carmel Valley.

Dennis Trixler led a strong Colt drive with an opening 70 followed by a 73 which placed him first in the tourney. Trixler hit his first shot out of bounds then proceeded to take the courses apart with a one-over par performance for the next 35 holes. Golf coach Jerry Drever said, "Dennis is to be commended for his performance in readying our team for next week's showdown."

Canada finished the overall tourney with a team average of 73.5 strokes per round placing them a hair below Santa Rosa JC who shot a collective 73.4 and the tourney leader Monterey Peninsula JC who notched a solid 72.9 strokes per man per round.

Other Canada golfers contributing to the formidable Colt performance were Steve Robinson who fired a nifty 145 for 36 finishing fifth in the overall standings followed by Fred Stamey's 148, Jim Evans' 149, Scott Wenborn's 150 and Rob Erickson's 152.

Transitions A return to the past

While Canada is celebrating its 10th birthday, a group of Canada students are also celebrating another birthday. A new book, "Transitions: Montara to Pescadero" has just been published by Canada College. If the enthusiasm of its authors is any indication, the book should be a great success. Some comments are:

Anne Gawronsky, a student from South Africa, was particularly impressed. "It was very inspiring. I'm a foreigner with limited experiences and only with people this side of the mountains. I was impressed and inspired by the people with other life-styles. I'm very happy with the book."

Kim Knollenberg had a somewhat different reaction. He said "It's kind of like a trying experience because I don't write easily. I really enjoyed going out there each week and meeting people and just writing it out. It was a lot of fun basically, but hard for me personally. The class wasn't very well structured, but the people in the class made it work."

Marjorie (Sunny) Hart, had this to say, "It was a very valuable experience for me because I hadn't been in school for about 20 years and learned that I could successfully carry this through from beginning to end. I think we should take it to the Pumpkin Festival on the beach and sell it there."

Michael Silverman, was equally enthusiastic. "I'm thrilled. It's just exciting and we worked so hard on it. A lot of us really sweated over it and it's almost like magic now because it's been such a long time waiting and we have a new burst of energy. Everything is coming together now.

"I think it will be successful in the school but more successful on the coastside. Almost to capture a picture of the community before it changes. It was only a year ago but already two thirds of the people have moved away.

"I gained a lot of help writing. I learned to organize my work and edit it myself. Met a lot of good people. I love doing oral histories...I think it's important. Almost everyone has a story to tell."

Carol Kirkpatrick reflected an enriching experience. "I never realized what was on the off-streets. I felt like I was a part of the community as I talked to people. I discovered a little church in Pescadero. I just feel I've got part of myself into it."

Catherine Joseph Habeeb said, "I found it extremely stimulating and rewarding. It was hard work and sometimes I felt like throwing in the towel. Now I say thank God for seeing it through because now I see the book. People on the Coastside are extremely interested. I'm really glad I did it."

Robbie Bergerson said it was quite rewarding. "I recently moved coastside and when I saw the publicity for the class I wanted to take it. I'm interested in the historical aspects and how much it's changed, although the people I interviewed were mostly artists and fishermen. It's really nice to see it all pulled together. I don't plan to write any at the time. It was an excellent idea."

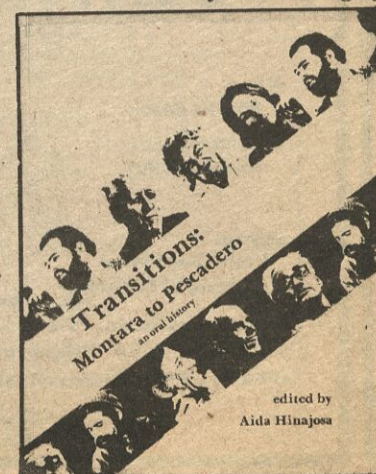

Katie Murdock was the last author and photographer interviewed. "I met a lot of interesting people and it helped me to reform some of the things I want to do in writing. I'm doing another oral history about the early days of motor trucking in Antelope Valley.

"It was a valuable class, Ms. Hinojosa is what keeps it all together, and it's valuable to work with people.

"I think the book will be successful with people on the Coastside. Hopefully teachers will be interested in it as a tool for teaching. It's a wonderful experience."

Finally, the person who made it all possible, Ida Hinojosa, said, "You have to be committed to the idea of producing something beautiful and lasting, and that's what I think is important. These students were very committed. The idea came from Wenrich...he wanted to see it done."

THE CANI

Jack Bernal, candidate for Senate
I am running for a seat on the Student Senate to continue my efforts to allow students at Canada the chance to have a real say over our own lives at our college.
Having been involved in the Student Government at our college for the past year, I have had the opportunity to witness first-hand the real power which students do in fact have at this college. The only problem is that we as students tend to not exercise our rights as students.

I have had both faculty and administration members tell me that if students simply get organized, we could have a tremendous impact on decisions which are made at Canada. It must be made clear to all who deal with this college, that without students; administration, faculty and staff at Canada would all be out of jobs.
I feel students will want to vote for me because I have been involved in Student Government and I know the best way to get done the things which students at Canada want accomplished. Being one of the co-authors of the new constitution, I know how the Student Senate can most effectively function to provide students at Canada with the greatest number of activities possible, while at the same time giving students a voice in the policy-making decisions at this college.
I feel that your vote for Jack Bernal will give you, as students, the kind of leadership and representation at Canada which you deserve.

make a more efficiently run student government. I am tired of strolling. I want things to move.
I feel I have creativity to offer the students of Canada College. I've been active in student government for four years in high school. Most recently at Canada I have become an active member of the our "Get Together Club".
Student government aims to work hard at bringing more services and activities to students.

government responsive to our needs we can have a say in our experiences both social and educational.
The main purpose of student government is to serve the students.

Patricia Martin, candidate for Senate.
I think all students should get involved in student government. Also show other people it's not hard to run for this type of office. It's not based on grades. And to inform the other students they do have a voice in school and it's not just a certain group of people that are participating in this election for Student Senate.

I think I'm a good, reliable, and responsible person to hold up the position as a member of student government. Also if you approach me with an idea, I will be glad to voice your opinion to the members. You know on election day, vote for Patricia Martin.
I think student government is able to let certain people detect or dislike what they see or should know of someone to be able to complain to. The Spring Festival should be held longer with more variety of things. The concerts should be held away from the classrooms. Make the courses better and enjoyable.

Editorial ASCC elections set

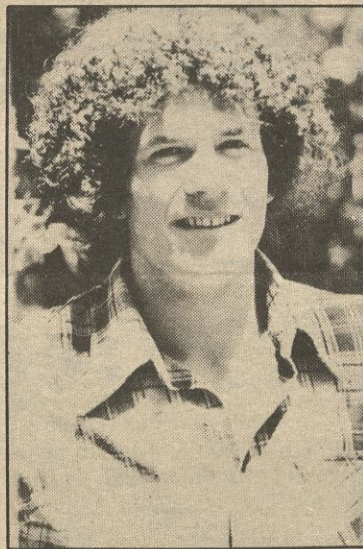

As the phoenix rises out of the ashes, so do the Associated Students of Canada College.
With the efforts and hardwork of a handful of dedicated students, comes the culmination of a slow and surely painful process, whereby the ASCC renews its position on campus.
The Interim ASCC has provided what seems to be a solid foundation for an about-to-be-reborn student government, preparing a workable constitution, seeking and attaining ratification (318 for, four against, one disqualified) on May 3. The constitution was signed by Canada's President Wenrich, early this week.
They have also planned and set up senate elections for next week.
Elections for the 15-seat student senate will be held Tuesday and Wednesday, May 16 and 17, in the cafeteria, from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m., affording every opportunity for students to vote.
The Weathervane urges students to get out and vote next week, continuing to show support for this long sought-after representation on campus.
The Weathervane also commends the Interim Government for their endeavors, commitment and persistence.

MAIL BOX

Editor, Weathervane Newspaper,
I was extremely disappointed in your paper's decision not to cover the Constitution Ratification Election held by the Interim Student Government on May 2 and 3, in the May 5, 1978 issue of your paper. I ask you: When was the last time that 322 students of Canada College voiced an opinion on an issue at this campus? I ask you: When was the last time 18 students submitted intent to run petitions for student government office? This level of involvement by the student body should not go unnoticed by the Weathervane. Your decision to criticize the voting procedures, instead of reporting the results and response leaves me deeply questioning your priorities.
Criticism is appreciated, when well founded, and can lead to a readjustment of policy by student government. But when the end product of a year's work, and a mandate of 318 students goes unreported I question your concept of newsworthy events.

As students and faculty read this issue of the Weathervane, it should be brought to your attention that if it were not for an 11th hour involvement by student government this issue of the Weathervane would not have been published. A lack of foresight by the Weathervane staff and advisors left an insufficient amount of funds necessary for publication of the May 12 issue.
I can only hope that in the future you will broaden your scope of commitment to the students of Canada College.
Respectfully, Jon Fredrick Erickson
Member, Interim Student Government

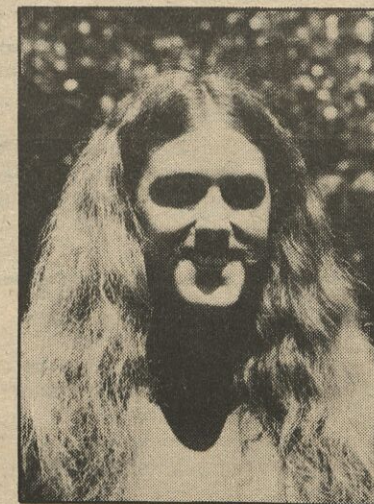

David A. Blunden, candidate for Senate
I am running for the office of Senator in order to effect the organization of more activities for the student body at Canada. For the past four months we have been bucking the Administration to get permission to stage a concert here; many of our problems stem from the administration and in turn get some good activities organized.
Who says life at a Jr. College has to be boring?

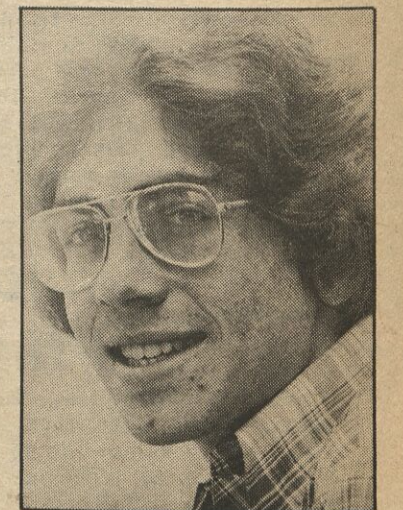

Susan Folger, candidate for Senate
I am running for the office of senator to lend the ideas and support I feel I can offer in order to

Robert Hasbun, candidate for Senate
I believe the students of Canada should be involved in student government. The only way I can justify this statement is to be involved in student government myself. That is why I am running for office.
I have been here for two years now and I know Canada. I know the students, most of the faculty, and several of the administrators. I know what they want and how to make them respond.
I believe student government should be a part of the whole body of the students at Canada; not a separate entity. I believe student government should be as a hand doing the bidding of the body. Thank you.

Todd Hildebrandt, candidate for Senate
I am running for Student Senate because it is an excellent vehicle to create social and educational activities which can kindle a sense of community at our "community college."
I will represent the concerns of the unheard minorities on campus and support the rights of ALL students. By working to make the administration and student Leonard Nolan, candidate for Senate.

I am running to make sure there is someone to support the students' needs.
People should vote for me because I have experience. I have been a part of the interim student government and I am the president of Hillel, a Jewish organization, which I helped found.
I feel student government should give clubs recognition and the support they need.

CANDIDATES

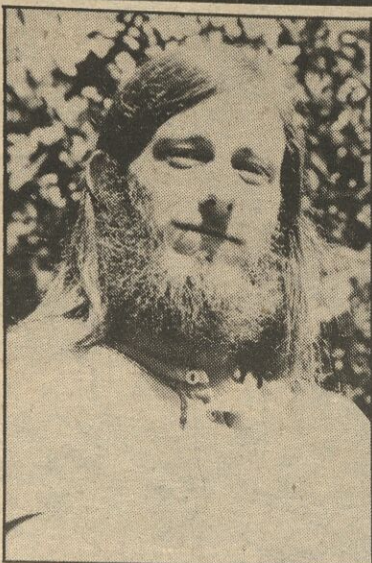

Maureen (Mickie) Norwood, candidate for Senate

I have definite ideas on how student government could be improved and made more vital. I want to help bring about this change.

I feel I can demonstrate the energy and enthusiasm to be effective in Student government. I will bring a fresh approach and the re-entry of a woman's view into student government.

The purpose of student government is to represent the student's rights in decision making at the college.

Vincent Spanier, candidate for Student Member on Board of Trustees

Vested in the implementation of Assembly Bill 591 is a potential which I feel has never been fully realized by the students and taxpayers of this district. That is a voice which is closer to the realities of the internal workings of the three colleges, a voice which speaks from closer contact with the students and faculty. This voice will be available as of July 1, through the student member elected to the Board of Trustees by the students.

It is my wish to be the student chosen from Canada and ultimately by each of the students chosen from CSM and Skyline, to sit on the Board as that non-voting member required by AB 591. In order to accomplish this, I will need a mandate by the students voting in the Senatorial elections. In that I have worked for three San Mateo County school districts over the past seven years, and having participated in several personnel policy making sessions, I feel that I am adequately qualified to hold this position. I view the position as a challenge to introduce fresh ideas that in the past may have been overlooked or ignored by the present Board. With your support through votes, this potential CAN be realized.

Betty L. Stanford, candidate for Senate

As a re-entry woman, I believe I have a unique contribution to make to student government. I have experienced through my work with the NAACP of San Mateo and the National Women's Political Caucus working with a great variety of people. I hope to use the energy and talent on a broad base of student body membership to contribute new strength and vitality to the future of Canada College.

I am a Political Science major with a sincere interest in politics and a firm belief that people must seize control of their own destiny. I am not just a talker, I am a worker and I am a realist. We all have a stake in the future of Canada College, and as a representative of the student body I will attempt to be responsive to my fellow students and to accept responsibility for my decisions.

Student government at Canada should reflect the particular needs and desires of this student body. Student government must be accountable to the students and to the college and the future of the college.

Rolly H. Steele, candidate for Senate

Enthusiasm, insight, diplomacy, and many more qualities are all prerequisites for a beneficial student government that can truly represent its constituents in regards to their feelings and needs.

Though the faculty is efficient, they can't successfully determine these wants that we, the students, do feel necessary for a good all-round educational experience.

The only way things can even begin to get off the ground is participation. So remember to vote, but vote for someone who'll get things hopping.

Lorraine Tibbetts, candidate for Senate

I'm a student here at Canada College in the music department.

I'm running for student senate because I noticed a decided lack of excitement, a certain lack of esprit de corp among the students. I noticed this beautiful campus filled with a bunch of strangers not getting involved.

I decided to run to see if my enthusiasm, my joy and my participation could assist others to learn that being at Canada can be an enlightening experience. I feel that if the students want someone to represent them with this kind of spirit they should vote for me.

Now, I believe that student government should be the motivator and the facilitator for actions of all kinds happening on the campus. But the real challenge is in getting the students worked up so that they will participate. We could wind up the greatest J.C. on the Peninsula, maybe even the country. Go Canada.
