Representative Assignments

Writing Assignments

(List all assignments, including library assignments. Outside assignments are not required for lab-only courses, although they can be given.)

1. Annotating texts: students highlight and comment upon important information, ask questions, mark vocabulary words, write reflections and reactions on at least one reading assignment every week (5-10 pages).
2. Responses: students compose written responses to texts through freewriting (once a week, one page), dialectical journals (once a week, one page), paragraphs, essays (1-2 essays, 2-4 pages) , and a novel project (poster and a two-page analysis).
3. Presentations: students compose presentations on texts that can involve sharing their outlines, mapping, analysis, or reactions to texts (1-3 pages, every three weeks).

Reading Assignments

(List all assignments, including library assignments. Outside assignments are not required for lab-only courses, although they can be given.)

1. Students read 60-90 pages per week depending on the type of reading assignment. More pages are assigned in autobiographies and novels while less pages are assigned for more dense writing in textbooks, articles and essays.
2. Students analyze paragraphs (4 paragraphs per week) from texts for topic, main idea, details, patterns of organization (paragraph style), facts and opinions, tone, purpose, and audience every week.
3. Students analyze short essays (2-4 pages, one every two weeks) for thesis, supporting arguments, facts and opinions, tone, purpose, figurative language, audience, and paragraph style.

Other Outside Assignments

(List all assignments, including library assignments. Outside assignments are not required for lab-only courses, although they can be given.)

- Students complete library assignments on finding credible information online, accessing subscription databases, and research methods.

To be Arranged Assignments

Representative Methods of Evaluation

This section defines the ways students will demonstrate that they have met the student learning outcomes.

Student grades will be based on multiple measures of student performance. Instructors will develop appropriate classroom assessment methods and procedures for calculating student grades, including the final semester grade. The following list displays typical assessment methods appropriate for this course. The actual assessment methods used in a particular classroom and section will be listed in the instructor's syllabus.

Methods must effectively evaluate critical thinking. Credit courses must include written communication, problem solving, and/or skills demonstrations.

Multiple measures may include, but are not limited to, the following:

Methods	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Exams/Tests• Homework• Quizzes• Group discussion. Oral Reports. In-class reading strategy practices. Written novel project . Teacher and student conferences.
